

Fair go, sport!

Promoting sexual and gender diversity

“We’re here, we’re queer and we wanna play!”

Sport remains a significant site for homophobic harassment and exclusion. Failure to ensure safe and welcoming cultures creates some challenges, not only for GLBTIQ communities, but also for sport.

The Fair go, sport! project aims to better understand and respond to these challenges by increasing awareness of sexual and gender diversity in sport and promoting action. Throughout 2011 the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission and Hockey Victoria have been working with the other project partners to do exactly that.

This forum will bring together the key partners to explain and explore the project – the issues, the approach and the learnings – and will showcase a range of positive approaches and practical activities.

If you play sport, watch sport, manage sport or just want to get involved, come and join the discussion.
